

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A network management system and method is disclosed that can add or modify, for example, a managed object, without recompiling or stopping operations of an executing network management system. Thus, preferred embodiments of the present invention allow a dynamic management of managed objects in a network management system.

654750 2025E60